

Hawaiian Gazette.

Published at the Postoffice of Honolulu,
H. T. Second-class Matter.
SEMI-WEEKLY.
ISSUED TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

WALTER G. SMITH, Editor.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

Per Month ..... $ .75
Per Month, Foreign ..... .75
Per Year ..... 5.00
Per Year, Foreign ..... 5.00

Payable Invariably in Advance.

A. W. PEARSON,
Manager.

TUESDAY : : : MARCH 7.

The attempt to surreptitiously change the text of the County Act shows that Stewart hasn't forgotten the tricks he learned while he was doing cheap politics with Tammany Hall.

Ex-Judge Gear's misfortunes enforce a moral as well as a tale. He was one of four judicial appointees of President McKinley who undertook to "do politics" on the Hawaiian bench. Every one of them has come to grief and the island courts have been restored to their old-time prestige as tribunals of law and justice. The fight against the carpet-bag judiciary has been arduous and has enlisted the full energies of the Advertiser, and the result has been all that good citizens could desire. Mr. Gear, it is said, will not return. Neither will Mr. Little. Both can be spared.

The thanks of this community are due to Secretary Taft for securing the passage of the bills for the improvement of Honolulu harbor and the survey of Hilo harbor. The amounts of money involved are $400,000 for the one project and $30,000 for the other. It is presumed that the appropriation will be available very soon after the President signs the bill. The $250,000 harbor item in the Territorial loan bill may now be erased and the money made available for other things.

MRS. STANFORD WAS POISONED

(Continued from page 1.)

cisco again, when it was sent direct to the city house. The trunk never went to the St. Francis. We took only night clothes to the hotel.

"The soda was out in the house for a week, from the time we arrived in San Francisco until the day we sailed for Honolulu. It was on the center table in the room where the packing was done. This room was open during the day. Mrs. Stanford had eleven servants. The room where the soda was, was accessible to all the servants. When we came here the soda was packed in a telescope basket, newly bought. The basket was taken to the Korea by an expressman. I know this for it was stated that the baggage must be ready for him at a certain hour."

"The basket in which the soda was was in Mrs. Stanford's room on the steamer. The maid occupied the lounge in her room, the first two days. I occupied the lounge in the adjoining sitting room. Then the maid became very ill and we changed places. The medicine basket was used on the trip but not the soda to my knowledge. The basket was brought to the Moana Hotel and taken to Mrs. Stanford's room."

THE FIRST ALARM.

"The night Mrs. Stanford died I heard my name called. I had retired but did not go to sleep at once. In fact, I think I was awake over an hour. I was roused out of my sleep by hearing my name called. I did not recognize the voice at once. Immediately after I heard May's name called and recognized Mrs. Stanford's voice. The names were close together for she called 'May' before I could get up. She spoke this way: 'Bertha—May—I am sick.' We rushed out and found Mrs. Stanford clinging to the frame of her door. She said, 'Bertha, run for the doctor!' I ran to the elevator and rang the bell and found the elevator, ascending as I was in the act of ringing. I told the elevator boy to run to Dr. Humphris's room and ask him to come to Mrs. Stanford's room as quickly as possible and not to wait to dress."

"As I started for the elevator the gentleman in the room next to Mrs. Stanford's, Mr. Heunisch, opened the door and ran ahead of me and down the stairs. After speaking to the elevator boy, I started back and saw Mrs. Stanford coming toward me, a few steps in the hallway, saying again, 'Bertha, I am sick.' She put her arm around my shoulders, leaning on me, and I led her into her room. I begged her to go to her bed and lie down but she said 'No' so I brought a chair and tried to induce her to sit down but she stood for a minute longer and said, 'I have no control of my body. I think I am poisoned again.' I said, 'Mrs. Stanford, do sit down, you must drink some warm water.' I began to draw hot water at the washstand and filled a glass and held it to her lips, but she said, 'I cannot drink it, my jaws are set.' She turned her face up to mine and I rubbed her cheeks, making her face pink, and said to her, 'Now try it,' and held up the glass again, and she did drink the whole glass and another glass of warm water. May and I rubbed her limbs. Then the doctor arrived. She drank in all six or seven glasses of warm water, this with a view of inducing vomiting."

"After Dr. Humphris arrived it was some time before Dr. Murray arrived. Mrs. Stanford made several statements before she died. When Dr. Humphris arrived Mrs. Stanford remarked to him, 'Doctor, I think I am poisoned. Won't you bring a stomach pump and pump out my stomach?' Then she turned to me and said, 'Bertha, tell the doctor, what has happened to me,' referring to that matter in San Francisco."

"I explained to Dr. Humphris, briefly, what had happened in San Francisco, saying that we were giving Mrs. Stanford warm water, hoping to make her vomit, as we were told vomiting had saved her life. Dr. Humphris inquired what Mrs. Stanford had taken and who had given it to her. I replied that she had taken a dose of cascara and some soda. Mrs. Stanford remarked: 'I took it myself. I had forgotten it, rose again and took it.' Mrs. Stanford then asked the doctor: 'Can't you give me something to make me vomit?' Asked again for the stomach pump, which the doctor said he had ordered brought out and to spare neither horse nor cost. Mrs. Stanford asked to be given some ipecac to make her vomit and I remember hearing the doctor remark: 'It might affect the heart,' saying that he was giving her mustard and water, to make her vomit. He tried to comfort her, bidding her not to be afraid. Hot water arrived from the kitchen and I placed Mrs. Stanford's feet in a pail of hot water and her hands in a vessel of hot water while the doctor was rushing for his medicine bags. He came back to the room with two bags and prepared some medicine; also prepared a hypodermic injection. For a short interval the rigidity of her muscles relaxed. I comforted her by the remark that she was better. She was in a profuse perspiration, as discovered when rubbing her spine."

"Then she remarked to the doctor, 'Another spasm is coming on,' saying, 'Oh, God, forgive me my sins,' and 'Is my soul prepared to meet my dear ones?' Then she said, 'This is a horrible death to die!' Dr. Humphris gave her some medicine. A violent spasm came on, from which she did not recover. This must have been about 12 o'clock. I heard some one say so, but who it was I don't recall."

"Mrs. Stanford was born in Albany, N. Y., August 25, 1828, and at her death was in her 77th year."

arrived Mrs. Stanford remarked to him, 'Doctor, I think I am poisoned. Won't you bring a stomach pump and pump out my stomach?' Then she turned to me and said, 'Bertha, tell the doctor, what has happened to me,' referring to that matter in San Francisco."

"I explained to Dr. Humphris, briefly, what had happened in San Francisco, saying that we were giving Mrs. Stanford warm water, hoping to make her vomit, as we were told vomiting had saved her life. Dr. Humphris inquired what Mrs. Stanford had taken and who had given it to her. I replied that she had taken a dose of cascara and some soda. Mrs. Stanford remarked: 'I took it myself. I had forgotten it, rose again and took it.' Mrs. Stanford then asked the doctor: 'Can't you give me something to make me vomit?' Asked again for the stomach pump, which the doctor said he had ordered brought out and to spare neither horse nor cost. Mrs. Stanford asked to be given some ipecac to make her vomit and I remember hearing the doctor remark: 'It might affect the heart,' saying that he was giving her mustard and water, to make her vomit. He tried to comfort her, bidding her not to be afraid. Hot water arrived from the kitchen and I placed Mrs. Stanford's feet in a pail of hot water and her hands in a vessel of hot water while the doctor was rushing for his medicine bags. He came back to the room with two bags and prepared some medicine; also prepared a hypodermic injection. For a short interval the rigidity of her muscles relaxed. I comforted her by the remark that she was better. She was in a profuse perspiration, as discovered when rubbing her spine."

"Then she remarked to the doctor, 'Another spasm is coming on,' saying, 'Oh, God, forgive me my sins,' and 'Is my soul prepared to meet my dear ones?' Then she said, 'This is a horrible death to die!' Dr. Humphris gave her some medicine. A violent spasm came on, from which she did not recover. This must have been about 12 o'clock. I heard some one say so, but who it was I don't recall."

"Mrs. Stanford was born in Albany, N. Y., August 25, 1828, and at her death was in her 77th year."

ANDREWS ASKS QUESTIONS.

At this point Attorney General Andrews asked Miss Berner about Mrs. Stanford's use of bicarbonate and witness stated that she did not use it when under the care of physicians as she used only what they prescribed. The maids and the housemaid, Nora Hopkins, knew of Mrs. Stanford's habit of using the soda. She did not believe the present maid or the new butler knew. The duties of none but these persons would lead them into the place where the soda was kept. Witness was not present when the Poland water was given Mrs. Stanford in San Francisco but understood that Miss Richmond had brought the water from the kitchen where the bottle was uncorked by a Chinaman and had heard that the bottle stood a long time before Mrs. Stanford drank it. The cascara capsules were Miss Berner's own."

ATTITUDE TOWARD SUICIDE.

In response to questions from the Deputy witness stated that Mrs. Stanford never read about suicides and said that the details of such cases distressed her and expressed pity for people who could be driven to take their lives."

In regard to the room in which Mrs. Stanford slept there was a dresser against the door leading into the next room. The windows were screened, there was a balcony outside. Witness thought that the room was locked when Mrs. Stanford was out, that was in the maid's charge."

Mrs. Stanford never stated any suspicions regarding the San Francisco poisoning to witness and the only conversation relating to it in Honolulu was that with Mrs. Henry Highton. Mrs. Stanford did not refer to this conversation in talking to witness. The water taken in San Francisco had a bitter taste, witness tasted it. In a postscript statement Miss Berner explained the unusual interval between the doses of soda taken New Year's week and that on the fatal night by saying that Mrs. Stanford was under the doctor's care until a week before leaving for Honolulu and that she had eaten very sparingly while packing and on the steamer so that she probably was not troubled with acidity of the stomach and did not need the medicine."

Witness described the San Francisco poisoning affair and said that Mrs. Stanford felt no ill effects after she had got the poison out of her stomach by vomiting. Her stomach rejected the poisoned water as soon as she drank it."

DR. WOOD'S TESTIMONY.

Dr. C. B. Wood of the Queen's Hospital, who performed the autopsy was the next witness. He described the condition of the body in detail. There was a most marked rigidity of the muscles such as accompanies strychnine poisoning. The blood vessels were full and a small quantity of dark liquid blood was found in the heart. There were no blood clots."

These two important statements were made by Dr. Wood. "There are no post mortem appearances which are absolute proofs of death due to strychnine, but all the appearances generally found in known cases of strychnine poisoning correspond to the appearances found in this autopsy."

"The examination of the organs failed to show any sufficient cause of death. The appearances were those given in the text-books as those following strychnine poisoning, but no other sufficient cause of death was found—that is, no disease was found in the bodily organs which could have caused death."

STATEMENT OF DR. DAY.

Dr. F. R. Day was next called and told of his being summoned to attend Mrs. Stanford. She died just before he arrived. When he first saw the body he was struck by the rigidity of the position of the feet, suggesting death in a spasm. He tasted the soda from the bottle and it had a bitter taste."

Why not look young? There's genuine pleasure in holding back Father Time fifteen or twenty years. You can do it easily with Ayer's Hair Vigor, for it gives all that deep and rich look to the hair which belongs to young life.

You know the story—how good Queen Bess, pointing to the beautiful hair of a peasant girl, said, 'There's a real royal crown. I would trade my golden one for it.' That was long ago. Now you can have a 'real royal crown' of your own, simply by using Ayer's Hair Vigor. It makes the hair grow thick and long and stops it falling out.

When your hair is rich and heavy, and when the closest inspection fails to detect a single gray hair, you will certainly look a great deal younger, and you will be much better satisfied with yourself, too. Isn't that so?

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

HOLLISTER DRUG CO., Agents

Dr. Day completely corroborated Dr. Wood's statements concerning the autopsy and strengthened the poisoning theory. The absence of clotting in the blood was a condition usually found in cases of strychnine poisoning. All the organs were in a normal condition, practically. Dr. Day stated that he came to the conclusion that there was no pathological cause for death—that is, there was no disease of any of the organs to account for it. There was no reason for death naturally."

EVENING SESSION.

The evening session convened at eight. Dr. Harvey V. Murray was the first witness called. He told of being recalled by Dr. Humphris between 11:30 and 11:40 to attend Mrs. Stanford. He found the patient's head thrown back and her body quite hot. Her fingers were firmly clasped with the thumbs pressed in upon the palms. The soles of the feet were turned up, instep arched and eyes bulging. Life may have been extinct or practically so. The body was placed on the bed, when the jaw dropped and had to be tied up with a handkerchief. With Dr. Day I retired to Dr. Humphris's room, where he had brought Mrs. Stanford's bicarbonate and capsules and the vessel containing vomit, which we afterward turned over to the Deputy Sheriff. Tasted of the bicarbonate and found it quite bitter—bitter enough to be strychnine."

"On March 1, I attended the autopsy. There were purplish spots on the cheeks, ears and most of the body. The hands were still clenched. The organs of the body were in a normal state. The stomach had very little water in it. From the absence of food liquid would have been quickly absorbed and even if a stomach pump had been available it would have done no good. Indeed, it might have brought on spasms earlier."

"Mrs. Stanford died in a spasm and my opinion is that the cause was strychnine poisoning. If I had been called without anyone telling me about the case I should have suspected strychnine poisoning."

DR. HUMPHRIS.

Dr. Humphris was the next witness. He described how he was called to Mrs. Stanford's room. She was standing near a wash basin and said:

"Doctor, I have been poisoned! Get a stomach pump!" She was then standing by a wash basin drinking hot water."

"How do you know you have been poisoned?" I asked.

"I have been poisoned before," she said.

"I turned around to Miss Berner and asked what she meant. Mrs. Stanford said to her: 'Tell him what has happened to us.' Miss Berner told me how near her mistress came to being poisoned in San Francisco. Mrs. Stanford told me she had been thrown from bed at that time by a spasm. Dr. Humphris questioned the maid about the medicine taken and inspected it. All this time Mrs. Stanford was drinking hot water to induce vomiting. I went out of the room to get some mustard and to telephone Dr. Day for a stomach pump. On my return Mrs. Stanford said several times she was going to die, and said she hoped she was fit to meet her family."

I was mixing various remedies in order to produce further vomiting. As I started to give her a mixture of chloral and bromides, and had put it to her lips she said:

"My jaws are stiff."

I felt them and they were so. She then said:

"It is a horrible death to die," and immediately became totally rigid, the respiration stopped and she never breathed again. The spasm lasted about three minutes."

When she ceased breathing the soles of the feet turned inward, the insteps were very much arched and the toes pointed strongly upward. The knees separated and her head fell slightly back. Her eyeballs were very prominent, and the pupils dilated. Her jaws were fixed. The thumbs were dug into the palms, the fingers were contracted, and the jaws were fixed."

Ten minutes elapsed between the time I entered the room and the final spasm. Dr. Murray came in and later Dr. Day. The condition of spasm was still there."

I then took possession of the vessel in which she had vomited, and the tumbler and spoon with which the mixture had been mixed and took them to my room accompanied by Drs. Mur-

THE PACIFIC
CLUB GUILTY

Seven decisions were rendered by the Supreme Court yesterday. Justice Hartwell, writer of the opinion, and Judge Robinson find that the Pacific Club was properly fined $100 and costs by District Magistrate Whitney for selling liquor without a license. Judge De Bolt files a dissenting opinion.

Justice Wilder writes the unanimous opinion of the court, constituted of its own members, affirming the decree of Judge Robinson dismissing bill against C. W. Booth and W. E. Fisher to reform the Pacific Heights mortgage.

Chief Justice Frear, writer of the opinion, Justice Hartwell and Judge De Bolt are unanimous in denying a rehearing to T. M. Harrison of his suit against J. A. Magoon and others, to recover losses on the Hagey cure contract.

Chief Justice Frear, Justice Hartwell, author of the opinion, and Judge De Bolt affirm the decree of Judge Robinson confirming the foreclosure sale in the suit of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., vs. W. C. Achi, Kaplani Estate, Ltd., W. R. Castle and J. M. Monsarrat, with this condition: that the decree confirming the sale will be set aside unless within one week from the decision the plaintiff remit from its deficiency judgment against the defendants the sum of $4470 for the value of the animals shown by the receiver's subsequently filed report to have been on the premises. The late Franz Buchholz bought the property at the sale, bidding $5500 for one parcel and $4250 for another parcel of land—the livestock on either parcel not having been stated before the sale—and the deficiency judgment was for $27,014.42.

Chief Justice Frear, writing the opinion, Justice Hartwell and Judge Robinson grant a writ of mandamus to compel Judge De Bolt to hear a motion for a change of venue for the trial of Charles A. Brown's suit against J. D. Spreckels and others, relative to Hilo waterfront property. The court finds that a motion for a change of venue is not in the same class with sitting on an appeal or new trial, either of which two latter circumstances is by the Organic Act a disqualification of a judge who has given a previous judgment in any case affected.

Chief Justice Frear, Justice Hartwell, writer of the opinion, and Judge Robinson deny the motion of Helen Rowland for a rehearing of the case of Frank Godfrey, trustee, vs. Helen Rowland and others.

The regularly constituted court, in an opinion written by Justice Wilder, decide that it was the duty of the Circuit Court stenographer, subject to direction of court, to furnish to the Attorney General without charge a copy of transcript of evidence in a law appeal instituted for use of Territory. An appeal from the refusal of the Auditor to pay the stenographer's bill of $43.74 out of the Attorney General's incidentals is dismissed.

ray and Day. Then I ordered a carriage and went down to town to notify the authorities."

Dr. Humphris declared that there were no indications of a natural death. All signs were consistent with strychnine poisoning."

"Is it your opinion that Mrs. Stanford did not die of natural causes," queried the counselor.

"Absolutely," was Dr. Humphris's reply. "She died of strychnine poisoning."

THE MAID'S TESTIMONY.

Miss May Hunt, Mrs. Stanford's maid, made a pleasing impression. Speaking of the packing of Mrs. Stanford's wardrobe, previous to coming here, the following colloquy was had:

"Did you pack the medicine chest?"

"I did."

"Did you recollect that you packed a bottle of bicarbonate of soda in the chest?"

"Yes, sir."

"From where did you take it?"

"From a table in the sitting room where we were doing the packing. There were a number of bottles there, all of which I packed in the medicine chest."

"Who selected the bottles?"

"Mrs. Stanford."

"How many days did this bottle of bicarbonate of soda remain on the table in that room?"

"I think it was there all the time."

"Just state the time?"

"Six days from February 9 until we left."

"Did you place the bottle on the table yourself?"

"No."

"Who put it there?"

"I don't know."

"How many servants are employed at Mrs. Stanford's house?"

"Seven," counting up on her fingers.

"During the time this bottle was on the table who was there assisting you in packing, and who made the selection?"

"Mrs. Stanford selected her clothing. Miss Berner was there too."

"Was the room locked or unlocked during the day?"

"It was open. It had three entrances."

"Was there any time when you, Mrs. Stanford and Miss Berner, were absent from the room together, and for my length of time?"

"Oh, yes; we were in and out of the room quite often."

"During your absence these three entrances would be open?"

"Yes."

Miss Hunt went on to describe Mrs. Stanford's spirits on the voyage, which were good. During the time of her stay here until her death she seemed in good spirits and spent her time largely in driving, walking and shopping. Miss Hunt did not recall at first a talk she had had with Mrs. Stanford in San Francisco in which suicide was mentioned. She afterward recalled it about

LOCAL BREVITIES.

(From Saturday's Advertiser.)

Misses Mabel Ena and A. Levey have returned to town from a visit on Kauai.

The Commercial Pacific Cable Co. now takes messages for Port Arthur, if written in plain English or Japanese, at sender's risk.

The British steamer Inverness at San Francisco has been chartered by the Pacific Mail Company to take a cargo to the Orient.

The grand jury returned 23 indictments before Judge Robinson yesterday afternoon, which were placed on the secret file pending arrests.

Mrs. D. W. Richards, who is visiting the islands with her husband from Nevada, had her leg broken by her horse falling while she was riding out of the crater of Kilauea on Thursday night.

Capt. Walker, of Wandering, Minstrel shipwreck fame, intends going to British Columbia to engage in the fertilizer business. He purposes also publishing a book relating to islands.

(From Sunday's Advertiser.)

Dr. Anderson has returned from the volcano.

S. M. Damon returned from Hawaii yesterday.

Commissioner Pratt sold an acre of government land at Kaili yesterday, Wm. H. Kuhlmann being the purchaser at the upset price of $500.

The transport Thomas, from Manila, via Nagasaki, is expected here next Wednesday and likely to have quick dispatch for San Francisco.

The Accounts Commission has finished its labors, and made its report to Governor Carter. The document was placed in the hands of the executive yesterday.

When the 12 o'clock whistles blew yesterday, the band struck up a patriotic serenade on the Capitol grounds. This was in honor of President Roosevelt's inauguration.

The White Star steamship Gaeis, lately withdrawn from the O. & O. Trans-Pacific line, after many years' service therein, was broken up on arrival at Liverpool from Hongkong.

Frank Turk and Mike Patton were arrested last night charged with assisting and maintaining a lottery. It is alleged that they raffled off a buggy. They were released on $200 bond each.

(From Monday's Advertiser.)

Judge A. N. Kepoikali of Maui is in town.

Manager C. B. Wells of Wailuku plantation is in town.

The Bishop of Zeugma returned from Molokai in the Claudine.

Postoffice Inspector F. J. Hare returned in the Claudine from Maui.

Deputy Collector W. F. Drake of the Internal Revenue returned from Maui yesterday.

The W. G. Hall, Claudine and Like-like were among the regular island boats arriving yesterday.

The local postoffice is issuing, to all who wish them, the postoffice department's booklets pertaining to everyday matters which come up with patrons of the mails. The book tells how to stamp, address and mail letters and packages.

Mrs. Antone Costa, formerly of Maui, died in Kealia hospital, Kauai, last Wednesday.

Judge Dole resumed the taking of evidence in the Delegate's election contest yesterday.

There will be a tourist coaching party to the Nuuanu Pali, on Wednesday morning at 9:30.

The entrance buoy, No. 3, will be on the westerly side of Pearl Harbor, not the easterly, as stated previously.

It is said at the Capitol that immediately after the adjournment of the Legislature Governor Carter will leave for the mainland for a long rest.

It is rumored that the Western Refining Co., San Francisco, is about to buy a controlling interest in Honolulu Plantation Co., the only Hawaiian company refining its own sugar crop.

R. Scott of Kilauea and Miss Ada Bush, daughter of John Bush, teacher, of Koloa, were married by Rev. J. M. Lydgate at the residence of the bride's father on Saturday morning last.

The Japanese consulate will be moved into its new quarters in the Sacha building, at the corner of Fort and Beretania streets, today. All the business of the Consulate will hereafter be transacted at the new place.

W. W. Hall, president of the Nahuiku Rubber Plantation, leaves for Maui today on a tour of inspection of the plantation. There is a large force of men at work and the transplantation of rubber trees from the nursery is progressing rapidly.

The Social Science Club met last night at the residence of W. L. Whitney. The presiding officer was Bishop Restarick. The paper for the evening was on the "Evolution of the Modern Battleship," presented by Lieut.-Commander A. P. Niblack, U. S. N.

Officers of the Sugar Factors Co., Ltd., elected at the annual meeting yesterday are E. D. Tenney, president; F. M. Swanzy, vice president; C. M. Cooke, second vice president; Geo. M. Rolph, secretary; E. F. Bishop, treasurer; W. Pfotenbauer, auditor; E. E. Paxton, manager, and these, with H. A. Isenberg, J. P. Cooke, F. A. Schaefer and S. M. Damon, directors.

as follows: When the alleged poisoning in January was being discussed Mrs. Stanford said to the maid:

"How dreadful it would be if anything had happened to me—people might have thought that I had taken my own life."

Miss Hunt added that the word suicide might have been mentioned. In fact, she believed it had been used.

The concluding testimony about the events of the tragic night agreed with Miss Berner's.

An adjournment was then taken until 3 p. m. today.

BUSINESS CARDS.

H. HACKFELD &amp; CO., LTD.—General

Commission Agents, Queen St., Honolulu, H. I.

F. A. SCHAEFER &amp; CO.—Importers and Commission Merchants, Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands.

JEWELERS &amp; CO.—(Robert Jewers, J. J. Lowrey, C. M. Cooke.)—Importers and dealers in jewelry and building materials. Office, 414 Fort St.

HONOLULU IRON WORKS CO.—Machinery of every description made to order.

HONOLULU STOCK EXCHANGE.

Honolulu, March 6.

NAME OF STOCK	Capital	Val	Dis.	Adv.
MERCANTILE.
C. Brewer & Co.	$1,000,000	10		452
SUGAR.
Ewa.	5,000,000	96	315	32
Haw. Agricultural.	1,200,000	120	80
Haw. Com. Sugar Co.	2,812,750	100	8	91
Hawaiian Sugar Co.	2,000,000	20		36
Honolulu	750,000	100		175
Honolulu	2,000,000	20	22
Hoku	500,000	100	1.0
Kahuku	800,000	20	34	195
Kihikihi Plant. Co., Ltd.	2,500,000	96	125	194
Kohala	100,000	100		60
Koloa	500,000	100		155
McBryde Sug. Co., Ltd.	3,800,000	30	95	10
Orion Sugar Co.	5,500,000	105	25	240
Pahala	1,000,000	100		158
Poakala	800,000	20	75	67
Olas Sugar Co., Ltd.	5,500,000	20	6
Novato	150,000	100	75
Wailua Sug. Plant Co.	500,000	50
Pacific	500,000	100		250
Pahala	750,000	100
Pineapple	75,000	100
Pepee	75,000	100
Pioneer	2,100,000	100	160	165
Wailuku Agril. Co.	4,500,000	100	85	771
Wailuku	750,000	100
Waimanalo	252,500	100
MISCELLANEOUS.
Wilders S. S. Co.	300,000	100	125	140
Inter-Island S. S. Co.	300,000	100	135
Law. Electric Co.	100,000	100	1.5
H. S. T. & Co., Inc.				101
Mutual Tel. Co.	1,000,000	100	65	10
H. S. & L. Co.	150,000	100
Hilo Co.	4,000,000	100	75	78
	1,000,000
PORTS.
Hart, Terr. & p. c. (Hilo Claims).
Haw. Terr. & p. c.			110
Haw. Gov't. & p. c.
Haw. Com. & Sugar Co. S. p. c.			100
Ewa Plant, S. p. c.			100
Haw. Com. & Sugar Co. S. p. c.			100
Hawaiian Sugar S. p. c.			101
Hilo H. S. Co., S. p. c.			104	109
Hilo S. T. & L. Co., S. p. c.			100
Kahuku S. p. c.			100
H. S. & L. Co. S. p. c.			102
Haw. Com. & Sugar Co. S. p. c.			100	86
Pala S. p. c.			101
Hilo S. T. & L. Co. S. p. c.			102	101
Wailuku Agr. Co., S. p. c.			100	